

anthony arendt

Director of Photography / Photographer

Anthony used Nikon at 16 started everything for Arendt. He shot friends skateboarding ,surfing, everything and then projected the slides on his wall. That was it.

At 23 years of age, he moved to Milan for the fashion industry. He learned from the Photographers he worked with. While in Paris, Anthony attended the American College in Paris / Parsons school of design continuing his education in the visual arts.

Once back home in sunny SoCal, Anthony worked as a gopher on film and stills sets. It is here that he finds himself with the same crazy enthusiasm he had the first day with that Nikon. Anthony has been fortunate to work alongside the industry's best through the years. He looks forward to every photographic adventure that he is fortunate enough to be apart of.
