DIRECTOR

Bowe's passion for directing is matched only by his loves of creative developing, delving into the unknown, and following roads less taken. By living and creating in New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles at various points in his life, Bowe has learned from premiere talent and brings a unique perspective to his music videos, commercials, shorts and branded content. The amalgamation of his inspirations show themselves in Bowe's content, with pieces that are defined by strong art direction, stylish VFX and dramatic cinematography.

An avid film enthusiast, and a devoted explorer, he sets out to populate his adventure diary with stories and experiences that inspire his creativity. If he's not behind the camera you can find him sailing around the Caribbean, carving through Sierra trees of fresh powder, or sitting in lotus position in Death Valley while contemplating whether In N Out or Shake Shack produces a better burger.

When at home in LA, Bowe is involved with the film and commercial community, by helping aspiring film enthusiasts with mentorships, job placement and connecting with local film schools - appreciating the people who took him under their wings when he first started out by supporting the next generation of creators.
