

timothy kendall

Director

Timothy Kendall is most known for his entertainment-driven, often surreal and playful style of filmmaking, while his grounded and thoughtful approach to each story keeps him current in many genres.

His directing style showcases a combination of big storytelling and smart comedy with a strength in capturing subtle performances in fun situations. A skill that's invaluable when working with celebrities and athletes.

He's won multiple awards from Cannes, Clios, ADDY, AICP, etc. for big brands like Honda, Samsung, Toyota, Geico, Dr. Pepper, Chevy, Microsoft, ESPN, and BMW. Kendall's debut feature film Hollywood Adventures released internationally to a $51mil opening weekend box office. He directed and produced the Action/Adventure/Comedy television pilot Dwight in Shining Armor, which was picked up for five seasons and distributed worldwide by Paramount.

Kendall's modest goal is for his work to appear in more Super Bowls than Tom Brady.
